IRELAND TODAY By Austen Lake

DeValera on Air Today

PRESIDENT EAMON DE VALERA OF IRELAND
Tune in at 6 on WEEI to Hear Him

Listeners of Greater Boston and New England who are following Austen Lake's articles on Ireland may hear the voice of President Eamon de Valera coming from Dublin by radio and broadcast through Station WEEI of Boston, beginning at 6 o'clock this evening.

This arrangement has been made possible through the alert and co-operative spirit of the Boston Evening American and the New Haven Railroad, the latter expressing willingness to forego the broadcast sponsored by it at that time and to relinquish the time in favor of the address by President de Valera of the Irish Free State.

It is expected that the head of the Irish government will discuss "The New Irish Constitution," and analyze the progress being made along social and economic lines. His voice will be transmitted over world-wide facilities and by special hookup in America with the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Dublin People Charm Lake

(Here is the fourth article in Austen Lake's great series on "Ireland Today." Mr. Lake, noted staff writer of the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser, is now in Ireland on assignment, writing the most picturequely informative articles to come out of the Emerald Isle since the turn of the century. Mr. Lake's next article will appear in the Boston Sunday Advertiser, and there will be another in Monday's Boston Evening American.)

Dublin, Ireland.

One of the charming characteristics of the Dublin people is the affability with which they assist strangers. In fact, the habit of the Dubliner, on being appealed to for information, is to take personal charge of the situation and put himself to extraordinary inconvenience to see your affair to a happy end.

This solicitude, I assume, is compounded from good nature, lethargy, unshame, curiosity and social sympathy.

For example, a Mr. William Berry, an automobile "works" (repair shop) man, a great knuckled off half a day to take me touring to Beggar's Bush, the suburban outskirts, and the Guinness Brewing Company—burning his own fuel and consuming his own time for the sheer joy of playing host. Do you ask a policeman—and there are many in Dublin big enough to toss Danno O'Mahoney with one hand and untangle a traffic jam with the other?

Somerville Youth Drowns in Charles River

BROOKLINE CHIEF 'KNEE OF THE LAW' TESTIFIES

BOY PROBED TRYING BOAT, ONE SAVED

An 18-year-old Somerville youth was drowned and another was rescued today in Charles river, off Magazine Beach, Cambridge.

The drowned youth was identified as Anthony Corduroy, 18, of Marston street, Somerville. Taken to the Cambridge City Hospital was his friend, Thomas Doherty, 18, of Beacon street, Somerville, suffering from immersion.

Both youths, together with Joseph Pero, 18, of Concord street, Somerville, went to the river to give their self-made kayaks their first test.

A short time after they rowed from shore Corduroy's boat suddenly overturned. His two companions rowed desperately to his aid. Doherty reached the spot first and plunged overboard.

Corduroy disappeared from the surface, however, and Doherty, swimming round, began to look quickly. He grasped the side of Pero's boat, which was alongside, and was pulled up on it.

Meanwhile, on the shore a group of Somerville boys who had accompanied the trio to the river, watched breathlessly. One of them, Ernest Corduroy, 18, brother of the drowning victim, rushed home when he saw his younger brother go under.

He broke the sad news to his widowed mother.

R. I. Strike Cripples Hotels

Brown College Boys Denied Bellboy Jobs

By JAMES F. MCNEANEY
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

Providence, R. I., April 30.—Six Brown University students were escorted back to the college campus by police for their own safety, today, after they had offered themselves as strike-breakers in the hotel strike.

The students were refused jobs as bellboys by the management of the Biltmore, which, with the Narragansett and Crown, are affected by the walkout of 500 waiters, bellboys, chambermaids, elevator operators and cooks.

The strike was timed to coincide with the arrival of large numbers from distant points for the opening of racing at Narragansett Park tomorrow.

The Brown students were in the lobby of the Biltmore when men and women pickets learned of their presence and gathered about the students.

Doctors said they would not be able to say for five days if the baby lives that long—whether or not an operation would be required. In the meantime the child's mother must wait, in suspense.

Discussion arose at Upton over the reward totaling $200 offered for finding Winona.

It was reported Deputy Sheriff Joseph Higgins of Barns was to be paid the $200 offered by the Upton selectmen, but Dr. Earl Crockett of the board said he would insist on half going to 18-year-old Daniel Billard.

Higgins and the Billard boys were searching together. The remaining $100 was offered by a citizen who most might name the recipient.

STATE AID SENT TO SAVED BABY

While a 30-day-old mother and thousands of others prayed today for the recovery of 2-year-old Winona Nelson, all the resources of the state were thrown into the fight to save the child who was found alive in the woods, after being missing four days.

In Whitinsville Hospital, the little girl, whose recovery was desired at last night, rallied enough to swallow some warm milk, according to Dr. John Sawyer.

One frozen foot had regained its natural color, but the other foot and the two little hands were still in bad condition, and Chandler little was breathing under an oxygen tent. She has pneumonia in one lung.

Doctors said they would not be able to say for five days if the baby lives that long—whether or not an operation would be required. In the meantime the child's mother must wait, in suspense.

Loyal Wife on Stand

Smiling and confident that her husband, Sergeant Henry H. McNeill, will be freed of charges of graft in Brookline, Mrs. McNeill took the stand to testify for the defense in Dedham court today.

On orders of Governor Miller, State Health Commissioner Henry F. Chadwick arranged for a Worcester specialist, Dr. Chester Sperry, to join Dr. Sawyer at the baby's bedside.

On the amazing stamina the child displayed in remaining alive under bad weather conditions, while she lay four days and four nights in a hospital, the doctors saw a ray of hope for her recovery. Adults have died under such a test.

Her mother, rather, brothers and sisters were barred from the child's mother and they could only wait, and pray, as the uplight light.

Prayers OFFERED
Hundreds of telephone calls from surrounding communities and as far away as Boston flooded the hospital, inquiring about the baby's condition and expressing the hope she would recover.

Faithful Upton offered up prayers in churches and informed the child's mother that her "prayer" had the right life.

GRAFT TRIAL NOW NEARING CONCLUSION

In the last five years not a single disorderly house in Brookline has been prosecuted, although police knew of their presence. Police Chief H. Allen Rutherford testified today in Superior court at Dedham.

Taking of testimony in the case was concluded at 12:30 p. m. today, and the noon recess was called, with defense counsel indicating that he would file several motions.

Called as a state rebuttal witness in the last hours of Police Sergeant Harry H. McNeill's trial, growing out of the Brookline graft probe, Chief Rutherford denied, however, that it is a "policy" of the department not to prosecute disorderly houses.

SEWING MACHINE
Chief Rutherford also testified that he had questioned Sergeant McNeill relative to the sewing machine obtained from Alfred Schuchman, former keeper of a Brookline disorderly house who in some serving a term in federal penitentiary at Atlanta as a white slave.

The state charges the sewing machine was given McNeill by Schuchman in partial return for "protection," allegedly by McNeill, then Brookline "on-man" vice agent.

McNeill testified he bought the machine for his wife, from Schuchman, through a third party. Today Chief Rutherford declared McNeill said the machine was bought for his sister-in-law.

DRESSED IN BLACK
Loyally battling in his behalf, Sergeant McNeill's wife, Mrs. Mary McNeill, testified today.

40-Ft. Fall Kills Lynn Workman

Falling 40 feet from the roof of Building M at the West Lynn plant of the General Electric Company, Leo Barton, 23, of Adams street, Danvers, was killed at noon today.

He had been working with a crew, repairing the roof. No one saw him fall.

Police took him to the Lynn hospital. He was pronounced dead at noon today.

He left a mother and father, with whom he made his home.

Rebel Battleship Sunk in Spanish Plane Attack

Bilbao, Spain, April 30 (AP)—The Spanish insurgent battleship Espana was sunk today in 32½ fathoms of Biscayan Sea by a fighting fleet of government bombing planes—possibly with hundreds of casualties.

She was the first war vessel of any size to be sunk by an airplane in all naval history.

The battleship, one of the mainstays of the attempted insurgent blockade of Bilbao, plunged under the sea within sight of land, bombed squarely amidships.

The insurgent cruiser Velasco, which was supporting the Espana in an attack on a British merchant ship, which the government armada sank, picked up some of the survivors.

The government planes, sent to aid the beleaguered Basques by the main Basque government, struck the ship at sea while insurgent armies relied toward Bilbao's "Maginot line" of trenches.

Hitler Points to Labor Lead

Berlin, April 30 (NS)—Indirectly referring to America's labor troubles, Adolf Hitler today told the German labor chamber that other countries are "lagging behind" Germany in reconciling employers and employees.

Hitler's speech was made as he opened the long-heralded Nazi exhibition entitled "Gloria in the Year of the Reich," portraying accomplishments during the first four years of his regime.

The Reichsfuehrer reminded members of the labor front how, four years ago, he ordered Dr. Robert Ley to "occupy the headquarters of the German labor unions and wipe them out in order to create a new Socialist community in the sense of the Nazi spirit, for Germany workers."

Pope Ordered to Country Villa

Vatican City, April 30 (NS)—In an effort to check the rapid decline in his condition, the pope today ordered Pope Pius to leave for his country estate, Castel Gandolfo, tomorrow afternoon, for a complete rest.

The papal doctor, based on the recommendations of James T. McCarthy, Massachusetts labor and industries, who asked the committee for power to regulate piece work sent by manufacturers to the workers' homes and stamp out the "sweat shop."

The proposed law would ban homework by persons under 18 years of age, and would give the state labor and industries department power to investigate conditions of employment and pay.

BILL HITS HOME 'SWEATSHOPS'

A bill that would give the state broad powers to prohibit industrial homework which was found to be harmful to the health of the workers or tending to break down "labor standards" was favorably reported in the Massachusetts House today by the labor and industries committee.

The legislation was based on the recommendations of James T. McCarthy, Massachusetts labor and industries, who asked the committee for power to regulate piece work sent by manufacturers to the workers' homes and stamp out the "sweat shop."

BROOKLINE POLICE CHIEF ON A GRAFT TRIAL

TESTIFIES HE KNEW OF VICE DURING PAST FEW YEARS

McNeill, also took the stand today, as the last defense witness. Mrs. McNeill, dressed entirely in black and wearing jorgensette glasses, testified in response to questions by Attorney Harvey, that she and her husband had been married 18 years, had no children.

Q—In the fall of 1935, did you do a sewing machine purchase? A—Yes.

Q—Was there some special reason why you wanted one? A—Yes.

Q—And you purchased a sewing machine? A—I did.

Q—Do you remember the time it was delivered? A—I remember it was the 19th of October.

Q—Tell us the circumstances of the sewing machine purchase? A—I had been looking for one quite a while. A friend of mine—Mrs. Rabbit—wanted me to go to Walworth to look at two stores, one of which she was going to buy out. I went with her and my husband. While we were in Walworth, we met Clemens and my husband introduced me to him. Clemens wanted to know what Harry was doing in Walworth and when we told him, he said he could get us a machine at wholesale. Then I gave him my telephone number and he said he would call me when he could make the machine.

He did this and later a furniture man called and said he could get the model I wanted for about $60. I said that was all right. Later, the man delivered the machine and took it out of the crate. He had to go to Cambridge for a missing part and I offered to pay him for the gasoline but he wouldn't take it. So I told him I ought to buy his wife a box of candy. I won't say I said anything about stock tips.

Q—What did you do about getting the address of the man who delivered the sewing machine? A—He wouldn't give it to me. He gave me the bill of sale. I had never seen him before. He called up a few days later and talked with my husband.

Q—Did a so-called cocktail table ever come into your house?

A—No. I am positive of that.

Assistant District Attorney Smith asked Mrs. McNeill but one question in cross examination.

Q—You never saw that man who brought the sewing machine before? A—No, never.

The defense rested, shortly after 10 a. m., with Mrs. McNeill testifying.

Telegrapher Scourie, proprietor of the Actor Cafe on Beacon street, Brookline, although summoned by the defense, was called as the first rebuttal witness by the Commonwealth.

He testified that he recognized a picture of a man presented to him as being a man he saw several times in his restaurant.

Tells of Group

The picture was one of Scheinfeld. Scourie said Sergeant McNeill and his wife and a little girl who, Sergeant McNeill told Scourie, sang on the radio, were in the restaurant when another group, which included a woman from Washington square, Brookline, the man in the picture, and another girl, arrived. Scourie said:

"When they came in, Mrs. McNeill shouted, 'Hello, there, the woman and the man said, 'Hello, Harry'."

"They came up to the booth where the McNeills were and there wasn't enough room so I pulled up a few chairs."

Attorney Harvey then began cross-examination and pointed to Scheinfeld in the dock with the question:

Q—Did you see this man in your place of business? A—No.

Q—Seeing him here in the courtroom now, do you present him doesn't mean a thing to you? A—No, sir.

Q—Your testimony is that you saw some one in your restaurant who resembled this man in the picture? A—Positively.

The picture was one of Scheinfeld prior to his arrest and the time when he was wearing a mustache.

Q—You saw Mrs. Lillian Scheinfeld here testifying? Do you remember this man coming in with her and saying, 'Did you see the sergeant?' A—No. I never saw her before in my life; only in the courtroom here.

Miss Ethel Kabler, who testified yesterday, was then asked to Q—Is this one of the ladies who did that night? A—Yes, she is.

Q—Then you were satisfied he was not getting something for nothing? A—Yes.

Q—Did you see him examined by the chief, will you read from the rules and regulations of the Brookline police department which state that no one can be in the precinct of the precinct that I indicate to tell was there in September that had been driven out in June? A—Yes, that was my question. Q—Why wasn't something done about it? A—I wasn't in charge of the road, your honor.

Q—Then you were satisfied he was not getting something for nothing? A—Yes.

Q—Who was? A—The lieutenant.

Smith then took the witness. Q—Tell us what kind of game you played at the Forrester Club? A—That's a four money machine, 15 men on the premises, a wall blackboard on which were names of horses at Aqueduct and other tracks, books for ink and payoffs and four telephones.

Chief of Police H. Allen Rutherford of Brookline, the state rebuttal witness to be questioned by Smith.

Q—Do you remember the time of the raid at Ivy street? A—Yes.

Q—At that time did you have a conversation with the number Wilson relative to a telephone tap of the Scheinfeld telephone at which the number of Sergeant McNeill appeared? A—Yes.

Q—Did you then call in McNeill and question him about how his number happened to be on a tap made at a house of his? A—I asked about it, I asked him maybe not in just those words.

Q—What was his explanation? A—He said he didn't know.

Q—In December, 1935, after the raid, did you have a talk with McNeill which involved the sewing machine? A—Yes, I did.

Q—Did you then ask him if he bought a sewing machine from Scheinfeld, or what he did was? A—Yes, I did. I asked him if he had for it, and he said he had and showed me a bill of sale.

Harvey then began cross-examination and asked:

Q—As chief of police you tried to know what it amounted to with reference to the McNeill? A—Yes.

Q—With reference to the statement that he said that his wife had been using his sister-in-law's machine, did you know that? A—No.

Q—Then, did you say his sister-in-law had taken her machine away from his place? A—I don't recall that.

Q—When McNeill told you that he had taken the machine and showed you the bill of sale, you didn't question him any further about it? A—No.

Q—As long as you saw the machine in his place, did you not feel that it was his? A—Yes.

Q—Can you refer to any court prosecution in 1937, or at least any that there was or was not?

Q—What were the conditions with reference to 1937? A—I don't know.

Q—When, to your recollection, before December 31, 1935, was the last time that you saw the prosecution by your department of a disorderly house in the town of Brookline? A—I don't recall.

Q—Was there a single violation within the last six years to your knowledge? A—I couldn't tell without checking the records.

Q—There was never enough so that you can recall a single one? A—Not without checking the records.

Q—Do you recall Lieutenant Hollister testified that in his period of service he made but one prosecution of a disorderly house in the town of Brookline? A—I don't recall that.

Q—You were here, weren't you? A—Yes, I was.

Q—You were listening to him, weren't you? A—Not all the time.

Q—Let's get down to the location of the raid at Ivy street. I think it was December 5, 1935. After the raid, did you make a report to you when he came back to what he found?

Q—Did the report refer to any conditions found at that time? A—Yes, reports were made.

Q—What conditions did he report to you? A—Wilson said he was satisfied that the people at Ivy street were all right.

Q—What were the conditions with reference to 1937? A—I don't know.

Q—When, to your recollection, before December 31, 1935, was the last time that you saw the prosecution by your department of a disorderly house in the town of Brookline? A—I don't recall.

Q—Was there a single violation within the last six years to your knowledge? A—I couldn't tell without checking the records.

Wally, Jovial in Interview; Her New Gowns Described

Wardrobe of Future Duchess Runs Full Range of Color

By JACQUELINE FRENCH

Paris, April 30 (U.S.)—Fashion news for which the world has long been waiting—a peep into the wedding wardrobe of Mrs. Wallis Simpson—was granted here by Schiaparelli and Mainbocher.

These world-renowned stylists have designed a galaxy of stunning evening gowns and arresting daytime attire for the woman who is soon to become the Duchess of Windsor.

Schiaparelli's contribution to the wardrobe includes three evening gowns, two dinner dresses and 11 costumes designed for afternoon and daytime wear.

Two fittings were held in the Chateau de Candé at Montauville, France, where Mrs. Simpson is being fitted for a high-necked evening gown of pale blue crepe trailing to the floor, with a low-hanging cascade of the same material in front. The ensemble is set off with a wide band of gold.

Another evening gown of navy crepe, snugly fitted at the hips and flaring at the bottom, with huge pointed butterfly wings at a waistline. Over all a fishnet lace coat with puffed elbow-length sleeves.

The third evening gown is of light mauve with an enormous figure down the front. One dinner dress is of carbon blue silk, to be worn under a jacket featuring bordered lapels and white and black details.

The other is fashioned from black wool set, fitting tightly to the most part but flaring at the knees. The high neck is trimmed with pale blue flowers.

For daytime wear there is a black wool suit. The single-breasted jacket is fastened with three black patent leather buttons patterned after the knight in a chess set.

Another brown wool jersey dress and a sky-blue tweed coat hanging only to the hips. The buttons for this coat are shaped like butterflies.

Rare Gems Bridal Gift To Wally

St. Wolfgang, Austria, April 29.—A wedding gift, that from the Duke of Windsor, will be a costly set of jewelry fashioned from the stones of the former monarch's own designs, it was learned today.

The Duke's gift will include a bracelet, ring, brooch and necklace, according to reports. They will be mounted with gems of great value, comparable even to those which adorn the royal jewels back in London.

Mrs. Simpson will receive the present on the day of her wedding. The jewel in which they will arrive is to be addressed to "Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Windsor."

It is now believed that the Duke of Windsor plans to join his bride-to-be in Tours by May 13, the day of the Coronation. That would permit the Duke and Mrs. Simpson to listen to the broadcast of coronation ceremonies together.

Shows No Tenseness As Her Wedding Day Approaches

Monts, France, April 30.—If Mrs. Wallis Simpson feels any tension, waiting for the day when she is to become the Duchess of Windsor, she failed to show it today during an interview at the Chateau de Candé.

Laughing and smiling, Mrs. Simpson was in a jovial mood as she relaxed in a garden chair near the south wall of the chateau.

The brilliant sunshine provided the conversational springboard from which the interview began.

Then the Duke's fiancée revealed that her wedding wardrobe had just arrived and been enthusiastically approved. Though she didn't say it, it was obvious that only the arrival of the Duke himself could have made the day more blissful.

Decree Monday

The interview was the last scheduled before Mrs. Simpson's divorce decree is declared final on Monday. Mrs. Simpson was smiling and seemed to be in a good mood.

When conversation turned to the approach of the unnamed wedding day, Mrs. Simpson waved all questions aside with a smile. She remarked that newspaper correspondents already were knocking on the Duke and the meager telephone lines of the Duke's fiancée. Her host at the chateau, nodded toward the gate outside, which were closed. A corps of French, American and British photographers were joined Mrs. Simpson in her view.

"It looks as though the siege is on again," she said. "Exciting walk" After about half an hour, during which she indulged in considerable gossip about her husband, Mrs. Simpson excused herself, this time to the Duke's private quarters, which she said she was going to see.

She returned to the chateau, where she was seen by a group of photographers. She was seen to be in a good mood and seemed to be in a good mood.

London, April 30.—If the streets of London aren't paved with gold today, they will be before the coronation season is over—and it will be nice, new, shiny American gold.

London is swarming with Americans, from plain tourists to glittering millionaires—and they are showering money as if it were confetti. Mrs. Hoover Cummings was at another table and in a corner, James W. Gerard, her husband, one of President Roosevelt's coronation representatives, lunched quietly with his wife.

I asked Mr. Gerard if he had been fitted for his knee braces which he will wear at the coronation, and he said he had. I asked him he would look elegant in them.

"Everyone wants to get a glimpse of the royal family, and the royal family is working overtime to make this possible without actually allowing it to be a circus," he said.

I saw the Duke of Kent riding in Hyde Park today—just after a fashionable dinner party last night. In New York's suburban circles, he would be described as a "millionaire."

The men over here on the whole are much more attractive than the women and much better dressed. You can tell an American by his legs—he is "mad" for stockings and he has a "mad" for a lady's hair.

The Americans have fitted themselves for the coronation in a double-click time, and Americans are doing in London exactly the same things they do in New York.

Everyone smart lunches at the Ritz, which is crowded, noisy and very fashionable. You will see the Royal Club in New York. With the influx of visitors, you see almost as many colony fares.

I saw the Grand Duchess Marie Stopping Oak, Tenn., April 30 (AP)—Jackson Whitlow was reported today to have broken the one he said began March 30 on a "call from the Lord."

"Tommy Whitlow, his father, told Mrs. R. E. Standifer that the 40-year-old father took some kind of "epilepsy" either last night or early today, Mrs. Standifer is the wife of the physician who has been examining him.

"The Lord told him last night to take a little while for his stomach, said," the elder Whitlow told Mrs. Standifer when he called to get advice from the doctor.

"He wanted to know what to give him," Mrs. Standifer said. "He said Jackson had been very sick and had a bad night."

Dr. Standifer was away and Whitlow left after a brief conversation with Mrs. Standifer. The Whitlows live in an isolated place to carry the coronation pictures from London to Frankfurt.

St. Louis, April 30 (AP)—The German Zeppelin Hindenburg will delay its scheduled May 11 flight from Frankfurt, Germany to New York for 27 hours in order to deliver news photos and news reels of the Coronation to the United States.

She will drop the pictures at Lakehurst, around dawn, May 13. Negotiations were concluded whereby five news companies, and four news photo organizations will pay the Zeppelin Company $50,000 to delay the flight.

In addition to paying for the Hindenburg postponement, photo and news officials are spending over $2,000 for special planes to carry the coronation pictures from London to Frankfurt.

Justice Bucknill, who will direct the coronation, will be in London for 27 hours in order to deliver news photos and news reels of the Coronation to the United States.

He has a charming manner, is clean-shaven, with dark, keen eyes and a stout build. He is very direct in questioning witnesses and is a "crack" interrupter of the proceedings.

It is all on the cards. Yet it will be that "Bucknill will handle the situation."

CHIEF JUSTICE WILL GIVE WALLY FREEDOM

London, April 30 (IN)—An unexpected move, Sir Boyd Meriman, lord president of the London Divorce Court, will preside at the session Monday when Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson is to reveal her final decree of divorce.

Yet the world will read eagerly of the cut and dried judicial process, spelling attainment of the long-awaited goal for which the Duke's trained, sceptre and orb.

Justice Bucknill had been expected to preside at the session, but decision to have Sir Boyd Meriman in charge was believed reached to lend the occasion added importance.

The list of 86 applications for final decree was filed at the court Monday as "No. 56; W. Simpson vs. E. A. Simpson," and Somerset House this afternoon.

It is all on the cards. Yet it will be that "Bucknill will handle the situation."

The case will be impersonalized with a number, and only revelation of the actual digits provides the new information in the formality.

Significance of the case is being treated with a legal "dead pan" and the importance ignored, through specific instructions to court attendants.

Hyacinth Blue

Another tweed jacket, this one of hyacinth blue, goes with a dress of heavy black silk. And there is a dress and jacket combination of blue-black and white, plaid, with a crepe scarf to set off the square-lapel neck.

The afternoon frocks include a dress of black silk with long winded sleeves of ribbed crepe, with white turtles and a wine-colored wool dress with zigzag prints.

There are also two carbon blue dress suits in plain and the other printed with morning glories—with the third of the dinner dresses of black silk, with long sleeves and a scalloped neck bordered with a dark blue high-necked silk blouse and a pocket handkerchief of the same material.

A suit for informal wear is fashioned of grey flannel, with the skirt and the skirt decidedly flared. The ensemble is completed with a dark blue high-necked silk blouse and a pocket handkerchief of the same material.

A short navy blue jacket and a white pleated blouse. The cuffs and neck of the blouse are trimmed with ruffe and the buttons are Scotch terriers fashioned from glass.

Another blue crepe creation is fitted with a close neck, bound print. The coat is a big bow stitched down over the hips and skirt with a silk down the center in front.

The second is a simple white maroon dress with high draped neck, short sleeves slightly puffed, a girlish of striped sailor collar and skirt extending to the floor. The sleeves of the jacket extend to the fingertips.

One of Mrs. Simpson's dinner dresses will be a white silk gown with blue polka dots and a long-sleeved bodice.

Purvis "Hunted" To Explain Rift

San Francisco, April 30 (AP)—Mol Purvis, who spoiled the love-and-seek game of John Dillinger and many another of the nation's toughest bad men when he was a federal agent, did a bit of expert detective work today.

He could not be found for questioning concerning why his message to bewitching Janice Jarrett, America's most photographed girl, was postponed indefinitely.

Purvis, arriving yesterday from San Antonio, Tex., where the wedding was to have taken place this week, ducked out before the train stopped at the station.

Hotels said he was not registered. He was seen to be in a good mood and seemed to be in a good mood.

BRITAIN MOVES TO SAVE BILBAO

London, April 30 (INS)—The British government is contemplating action to prevent slaughter of civilians in Spain's civil war, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden revealed in the House of Commons today.

"Britain is anxiously considering what action can be taken to prevent recurrence of deplorable events like the bombing of Guernica," Eden said, "and recognizes the desirability of co-operating with other governments and has the question of appropriate methods of securing such co-operation under urgent examination."

Eden made his statement in reply to a question whether Britain would summon immediately a meeting of the non-intervention powers to prevent Rebel General Emilio Mola de Spain from carrying out his reported threat to bomb Bilbao.

It was understood Britain and France are seeking assurances from the rebel generalissimo that he will not destroy Bilbao, and are planning to warn him aerial de- struction of the city would be de- pendent and likely to result in grave political damage to his cause.

ROOSEVELT TO SIGN
NEW WAR ACT AT SEA

BY GEORGE DURN

New Orleans, La., April 30 (INS)—Somewhere out on the salty expanse of the Gulf of Mexico President Roosevelt was looking for fishing grounds today, temporarily abandoning all but the most pressing of official duties.

One job was in store for him and it looked like a race against time. There is a May 1 deadline on signing of the new neutrality law, which Congress finally put into effect last Thursday, if the present temporary act is to continue.

Word from Washington was that the bill was being air-mailed south in an effort to obtain the Presidential signature before Sunday. This is the act which outlaws sale of munitions to warring nations and gives the President broad discretion to limit trade in other commodities which might be utilized for fighting purposes.

Here at New Orleans, where Presidential Secretary Marvin H. McIntire set up temporary quarters, the betting was that the bill would be in Mr. Roosevelt's hands before midnight Saturday. This meant an air mail flight from Washington to Galveston, Tex., and a transfer at Galveston of the official pouch to a Navy seaplane, which will meet the White House yacht Potomac.

A select stag party was aboard the Potomac for 10 days of fishing off the Texas coast.

With the President were his son, Elliott; his naval and military aides, Captain Paul Baerwald and Colonel Edwin M. Watson, and Captain Ross McIntire, White House physician.

Mr. Roosevelt left New Orleans aboard the destroyer Moffett late yesterday afternoon after receiving a tumultuous welcome in the Louisiana city and handling a political problem admirably.

Men who once swore allegiance to the late Senator Huey P. Long, bitter critic of the New Deal, but who are now in control of the state and city, greeted the President with fervent pledges of loyalty. They included Governor Richard Leche, Mayor Robert Maestri, and Colonel Seymour Weiss. Not to be outdone, the President said in a brief extemporaneous speech at Roosevelt Hall, a WPA project named in his honor, that he was "proud to be the guest of this state and also the guest of your young and distinguished Governor."

LOSES IN COURT
FOR P. O. JOB

President Roosevelt has the power to remove a postmaster "at his pleasure," Judge Elisha H. Brewster ruled today in Federal court.

Denying the petition brought by John F. Curran of Milford, asking an injunction to prevent Postmaster John E. Hagginton from acting as postmaster of Milford, Judge Brewster found that Curran had never received a commission to the office from the President.

Curran claimed that he had first been appointed postmaster, was confirmed by the United States Senate, and a commission had been issued but never received by him.

Sen. Gibson Improves
Washington, April 30 (AP)—Aides of Senator Ernest W. Gibson of Vermont said today they expected he would be recovered sufficiently from an attack of neur- algia to return to the Senate floor next week.

Wounded Officer Rallies Slightly

Experts Determine
Type of Gun Used
By Two Thugs

After a turn for the worse during the night, Patrolman Thomas G. Supple, shot on his day off by one of two burglars who had broken into a Dorchester house, was reported "fairly comfortable" today at City Hospital.

The officer's name remained on a danger list and doctors said even if he recovered, he would not be out of danger for several days.

Ballistic experts at police headquarters determined the exact type of gun from which the bullet that wounded him was fired, and officials indicated this was a valuable clue.

They refused any further information regarding their discovery.

Supple's assailants, whose act was termed by police officials as the "most vicious in the city's annals," are believed to be the "harmful pair" responsible for a series of house breakings in Dorchester in recent weeks.

Police search was aided by the discovery of four fingerprints in the Dorchester house, which Supple was entering when he was contacted by the burglars.

Though suffering from his wound, Supple gave police all the information he could at City Hospital and supplied a graphic story of the shooting.

"I was going to the home of Mrs. Anna Leary to fix her furnace. It was my day off and I was in civilian clothes," Supple said.

"As I approached the front door I looked to me as if it had been jammed. I entered and went down the hallway into the house. Suddenly two men jumped out at me. One had a revolver.

"He shouted 'Stick 'em up!' I did. The other man started to kick my chest and I fell. He took $50 and then came across my police badge. He said to his companion, who had a gun at my back, and shouted: 'Stick 'em up!' Let him have it!"

Supple said he was fired and I fell. I was in my chest and dropped. They ran. I pulled myself to the door and reported to police."

PATROLMAN THOMAS G. SUPPLE

RECOVERY HERE, SAYS MOLEY

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., April 30 (INS)—Despite political methods, devised and used to make business a negative political asset and threat to progress, business has recovered and now looks something like its former self, Raymond Moley, former so-called brain-truster in the Roosevelt administration, asserted here today.

In an address before the American Association of Advertising Agencies, Moley, editor of "Newsweek" and professor of law at Columbia University, attacked much administration legislation concerning business.

He termed President Roosevelt's Supreme Court reorganization plan an "incredible child of caprice."

Moley regretted that the administration limited its drive for restoration of confidence "until it means, simply, confidence that Congress and the administration would fight a supposedly necessary battle for the public against business."

"I don't and didn't believe the battle was necessary," he stated. "I deeply regretted it as an anti-climactic outcome of the New Deal."

VICTORY CLAIM BY BOTH SIDES IN COURT TILT

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Washington, April 30—Leaders of the opposition to President Roosevelt's Supreme Court plan today openly predicted its defeat in the Senate while the Senate Judiciary committee poised for further consideration of it until Monday.

The opposition forecasts of victory were provoked by a statement from Senator Ashurst, (D) Arizona, committee chairman, that an "opposition poll" showed 50 votes in the Senate for the President's plan. This the opposition leaders denied.

Senator Van Nuys (D), Indiana, an opposition leader, said:

"We will defeat the proposal for six new justices in the committee and on the floor of the Senate. There is no question now about the outcome."

"It's a cinch to defeat it in the committee and our confidential poll shows we will defeat it in the Senate by a substantial majority. There are signs now that by the time we vote there will be a landslide against it."

Senator Clark (D), Missouri, another foe of the President's plan, shared this belief. He said:

"Events of the last few days make it very certain the opposition has a safe working majority in the Senate to defeat the six-judge plan."

Senator Ashurst meanwhile insisted the President would win. He said he had "other information" in support of his statement that "an opposition poll" showed there were 50 votes in the Senate for the President's plan. This would be enough to enact it if a vote were taken.

Ketchikan, Alaska, April 30 (AP)—Smothering fire in box No. 2 hold with steam, the crippled liner Cordova arrived here today with 104 passengers, after a battle with fire and heavy seas off the British Columbia coast.

The Coast Guard patrol boat Alert, one of three vessels sent to her aid, conveyed the Alaskan Steamship Company liner into port. Heavy seas crippled her steering gear, but she proceeded under her own power after repairs. Ashurst also was a crew of 48.

He termed President Roosevelt's Supreme Court reorganization plan an "incredible child of caprice."

Moley regretted that the administration limited its drive for restoration of confidence "until it means, simply, confidence that Congress and the administration would fight a supposedly necessary battle for the public against business."

Pickering to Lure Anglers

SEASON OPENS TOMORROW

Fifteen days of spawning fishing since the season opened in Massachusetts was just a warm-up to what the angling fraternity promises to do tomorrow.

May Day marks the opening of the trout season in Vermont and New Hampshire, the pickering season in Massachusetts, the opening of the trout ponds at the Harvard-Yale state forest recreation area in Andover, and the general invitation to anglers for fishing throughout New England.

Sunday offers another championship start when a 20-gauge contest will be held at the grounds of the Radio Street Club, Hingham, at the Tropical Park radio station, off Pleasant street.

Young Chick ably assisted by Dedham, national champion who last year lost 50 out of 50 to win the state championship at Waltham, will defend his title against more than 50 transmitters. The contest is under the auspices of the Massachusetts State Shooting Association.

The Isaac Walton League of America, meeting in its fifteenth annual convention in Chicago today, renewed its drive for a separate Federal Conservation Administration, with full cabinet status.

Former Governor Clifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, who took a leading part in Federal conservation activities during the administration of President Theodore Roosevelt, was the principal speaker.

R. B. Lecker, of Chicago, the League's national conservation director, told the delegates: "The League holds that to prevent all public waters from becoming 'reluctant desert' incapable for use either for industry or recreation, there must be national action such as control over complete watersheds."

The League's report on the condition of the waters in Maine indicates they have already cleared in the following: Lakes-Belgrade chain, Oxbow, Belgrade, ponds near Lake Umbagog, Green, Bog and Sebago, Frye-Moose.

Ice has also cleared on Lake Umbagog in New Hampshire and Lake Umbagog. All other better-known lakes in Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire are still frozen.

SALT WATER NOTE—Captain Charles Chase of Harwichport, advises that the sea pollock have started running off Chatham on the Cape. These fish are weighing from 15 to 35 pounds but the season is nearly over. Better fishing is warmer weather.

One of the game-fish waters that opens tomorrow is Barrett's pond, also known as Barrett's pond, near Plymouth. This pond has been stocked by the state with bluegills, larger than the average stock-size trout. No boats are allowed. Fishing only is permitted, and the trout fishermen will have to drag out the waters to hunt around the edges of the pond.

Now comes Walter Tate, of Cambridge, to make us out a fisher. On the day when, on good authority, we were told that no fish were taken at Peters pond at Sandwich, April 18 to be exact—and said as much in print. Tate and his party took 28 Chinook salmon between 14 and 18 inches out of same pond on 100 leader, with shrimp and gold hooks.

They were taken from the south-west cove of the pond.

William Skinner of South Royton, Vt., who won the diamond trophy of the West Palm Beach, Fla., Fishing club for catching his fourth sailfin, serves as bait. He has returned home for the New England salmon season.

He says he gets more kick out of catching a three-pound salmon in light tackle, or a two-pounder, than catching a seven-foot sailfin. His last sailfin weighed eight feet six inches long, weighed approximately 70 pounds, and returned 40 minutes to haul in.

TALL TALES DEPARTMENT—This offering opened in a real fishing edifice to Sebago. "Last year a new salt-water fish appeared, a feather jug with a reservoir inside, that left an air slick on the water as it trailed along."

"A fresh water fisherman decided to imitate the lure, but used mud instead of air to create the slick. It was a success from the point of view—the fish took the lure quickly, and were attracted to great numbers. But when they hit the alcohol, their fighting prowess was so greatly diminished that they broke all the line."

REVEALS NEW SHOOTINGS IN KENTUCKY

Washington, April 30 (AP)—Sheriff Theodore Middleton of Marlan County, Ky., testified today he knew two of his deputies had shot and left for dead another deputy, Hugh Taylor.

Taylor has testified he was attacked after he protested against the slaying of the 18-year-old son of a union organizer.

The chief law enforcement officer of the Kentucky coal county testified before the La Follette Civil Liberties Committee that deputies Wash Irvin and Frank White "gave me the gun" with which they shot Taylor on the night of February 23.

Neither White nor Irvin, was dismissed from the sheriff's force or placed under arrest, Middleton added, although a warrant was later sworn out charging them with the offense.

"Is it your habit to keep as deputies men who have committed crimes of violence?" inquired Senator La Follette (Prog.-Wis.).

"Well, as a rule we do not dismiss them until they are convicted," the sheriff replied, smiling.

Boat Upset Fatal to Somerville Boy

The trial sail of a home-made kayak resulted in the drowning of Anthony Cordiero, 18, of Somerville, in the Charles river, opposite Magazine Beach. Police found his body several hours later. Cordiero's pal, Thomas Doherty, is at Cambridge City Hospital.

BOY DROWNED IN BOAT UPSET

16 of Beacon street, George Alphonso, 16, of Cooney street, and Thomas Takma, 21, of Hall street, jumped into a boat belonging to the Metropolitan District Police at Magazine beach and started to their friends' rescue.

BODY IS RECOVERED

They reached Spino and Doherty who were in the center of the river, took them aboard and rowed to the Allston side where a few minutes later a Cambridge police ambulance arrived.

It took Doherty to the hospital, where his name was placed on the danger list.

Metropolitan and Cambridge police started dragging for the other boy's body which was recovered an hour later. It was removed to the metropolitan police main mortuary.

Doherty and Cordiero were seniors at Somerville high school, due to be graduated in June.

Traffic along the river was delayed for a time when many motorists stopped to watch the dragging operation.

"The kayak, made by the three boys, are eight feet long, 21 feet wide, have four-foot masts, V-shaped bottoms and are of wood covered with canvas."

Girls' Home Trial

Halted; Woman Ill

Putnam, Ct., April 30 (INS)—A surgeon's knife today gained postponement until next September of the trial scheduled for Tuesday of Mr. and Mrs. Philip C. Provandis, suspended superintendent and matron of Windham County Home for Children.

Provandis is charged with attack on two girl inmates of the home. Mrs. Provandis was bound over to a charge of embezzlement of $300 of county home funds. Her brother, Wendell Ford of Malden, Mass., charged with receiving goods stolen from the home, will appear in court May 20. Mrs. Provandis faces an immediate operation on both eyes for removal of cataracts.

LINER WITH STRICKEN AUTHOR RACING HERE

So seriously ill that she was transferred at midnight to mid-ocean from one steamer to another for a race back to port, Lady Caren, the American Seamen's author, was on her way to Boston today, aboard the American Seamen's liner Seamen.

At the office of Moore & McCormack Inc., 75 State street, operators of the Seamen Line vessels, the transfer was made in a lifeboat and Lady Caren was placed in and aboard the Seamen's liner under the care of the ship's doctor.

"We had no idea she was ill during our visit with her at New Rochelle earlier this month," said the Quincy relative.

At the office of Moore & McCormack Inc., 75 State street, operators of the Seamen Line vessels, the transfer was made in a lifeboat and Lady Caren was placed in and aboard the Seamen's liner under the care of the ship's doctor.

She has written numerous books, some of them in English. Relatives in Quincy are anxiously awaiting the arrival of the Seamen, which, although steaming at full speed, cannot reach here until tomorrow afternoon.

Lady Caren was on her way home after a visit to Barbara Doherty of Farmington place, New Rochelle, N. Y., where the Quincy relatives also were guests.

She sailed from New York Wednesday on the Swedish liner Scania and was striking with a serious infection of the jaw yesterday.

As the liner could not turn back, the Seamen is due to dock at pier 41, Myrtle street, Charlestown, tomorrow at 2 p. m.

A Coast Guard amphibian plane at the Salem airport was made ready to start for sea immediately if it becomes necessary to speed up the arrival of the patient here.

WIDOW OF PHANTOM SHIP'S MATE DIES

New York, April 30 (AP)—Mrs. Frances N. Richardson, 51, widow of the first mate on the "phantom ship," the Marie Celeste, whose crew vanished on the high seas in 1872, died last night.

As a bride, Mrs. Richardson stood on the deck and waved goodbye to her husband, Albert, as the Marie Celeste sailed for Genoa from New York with a cargo of alcohol in 1872.

She never saw him again. The British bark, Del Gralla found the Marie Celeste off the Azores on December 4, 1872, nearly a month after she sailed—no man aboard.

UNSOLVED MYSTERY The Marie Celeste's cargo was undisturbed. There were no signs of disorder, and food had been prepared for the next meal. Her ship's mate, who was with her, had been seen by his chain beside his empty berth.

The final entry in the ship's log noted the vessel had just passed the island of St. Mary in the Azores.

In the sixteenth and a half years that followed Mrs. Richardson lived quietly in Brooklyn sometimes alone, and in late years with a niece. She declined to tell her "life story" for publication.

BORN IN MAINE For the last few years, she had been in poor health.

She was born in Eastport, Me., and came to Brooklyn as a bride. She is survived by a brother, William Spence.

Funeral services will be held at a Brooklyn funeral chapel at 3 p. m. Sunday.

There have been reports, secondhand, that the captain of the Del Gralla gave the log of the "phantom ship" to Mrs. Richardson, but she has not been found by relatives among her possessions.

Capt. Wallace Smith Dies Halifax, N. S., April 30 (INS)—Captain Wallace Smith of steamer Michel France died at home in Parron today. He had been ill several weeks with heart trouble.

CALL ADMIRER IN TAYLOR CASE

New York, April 30 (AP)—A former admirer of Hugh Taylor, the slain deputy sheriff of Marlan County, Ky., today called on the La Follette Civil Liberties Committee to testify that he had seen Taylor on the night of February 23.

To offset testimony of the 41-year-old defendant that he saw Taylor on the night of February 23, the committee heard testimony from a man who said he had seen Taylor on the night of February 23.

JUNIOR BIRDMEN OF AMERICA

LAWRENCE SHAW NATIONAL DIRECTOR
DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF THE YOUTH OF THE AMERICAS IN AVIATION

By L. F. ROSS

Boston Wing Commander

Nine o'clock tomorrow morning is the time, Franklin Field, 510 Hill and Talbot avenues, Dorchester, is the place. The big annual Novice Model Plane Flying Contest for Junior Birdmen of the Boston American wing is the event.

JUNIOR BIRDMEN OF AMERICA

(Membership open to all boys and girls 10 to 21)

I wish to join the Junior Birdmen of America. I enclose a dime (well wrapped) for my gold wings and other membership materials.

Mail to Junior Birdmen, Boston American Wing, 100 Summer St., Boston, Mass.

And, unless "Junior Birdmen weather" prevails, this weather being recognized in the form of a low ceiling, through a combination of fog, low clouds and downright downpours, the results will be a postponement of the two endurance events for gliders and hand-launched stick models.

Critical Junior Birdmen out-competitions of the past have taught wing headquarters that the actual start of the flying is the actual start of the fun. Many members have a sphere of cast and model plane construction and other hobbies. The Junior Birdmen of America are a group of boys and girls who are interested in the flying of model planes. They are a group of boys and girls who are interested in the flying of model planes. They are a group of boys and girls who are interested in the flying of model planes.

But from their exceptionally high score of optimism all Junior Birdmen contestants in tomorrow's classic are drawing the required amount of enthusiasm for clear and warm weather. They hope it will be one contest that does not have to be postponed. All model builders, all friends of the Junior Birdmen and all friends of aviation are invited. Operators are sure to get an "A" and enjoy the whole-hearted competition that beginners put into their attempts to fly.

A healthy number of contestants will be on hand, the high level of formal entry does not list official registrations. From Waltham will come a band of more of model builders, accompanied by Howard Cherry, Wagon Brown and others, representing the WPA recreation department. They are going to make a day of it, competing in the morning and visiting the site at Franklin Park in the afternoon. Their baseball team is ready to play a school nine in the afternoon if a diamond can be obtained.

The Leaning Lanes and the Stone Memorial squadrons of Forest will be particularly well represented, as will the Flying Lanes and other flight units. There will be model builders from Weymouth, Reading, Mattapan, Cambridge and all the districts of the B. A. A.

Contestants must first register. The registration table and their names and addresses. They must report to the registration table where gliders will be examined and approved. From the table, move to the table to whom they are assigned and to the flying.

The glider event will begin promptly at 9 a. m. and last until 11 a. m. The stick model event will start at 11 until 1 p. m. The last of a whole week of model plane events.

It is hoped that the pilot report will be a success and that the event will be a success.

Root Beers Cruelty

Chicago, April 30 (AP)—Root beers were the root of the trouble between the Urbanskis. Mrs. Walter J. Urbanski told a Superior Court judge yesterday that her husband stopped for drinks at bars 12 times while accompanying her to a funeral. Each time Mrs. Urbanski took root beer. Mr. Urbanski, who was not drinking root beer, called her a wench. Then he struck her. The court agreed with Mrs. Urbanski that that was no way to treat a bride of less than two months and decided to grant her a divorce.

CHAPTER 200

WE all turned startled faces toward the doorway as a familiar voice drawled. "What's the matter with me?" in answer to Noel's mandate that I must not drive down to Long Island without some man in the car to protect me.

The next instant I had flashed past Noel and Mary, and even as they voiced a welcome to the newcomer I was caught in my husband's arms. "Uncle Dickie!" Mary and Noel exclaimed together, and "How long can you stay?" The question came from my lips without volition. Indeed, I hardly knew my own voice, so choked and unnatural were its accents. "That depends entirely upon you, my dear," he said.

"On me?" "Yes, on you." He grinned at me teasingly. "I have come up expressly to drive back with you. Aren't I the devoted husband?" "Tomorrow morning, if it is necessary," I said promptly, "but if it be possible I should like to wait until the next day. We have planned a trip to the mountain peaks for tomorrow." "Yes, I know," he said surprisingly, "and it is perfectly all right with me, that is—if you will kindly add me to your party. May I come along?"

"Now you're fishing." I shot back with a smile, for his nonchalant manner was taking the edge off my uneasiness. "You know nobody would stir without me. But how did you know about it? Oh of course! You must have seen Katherine!"

"For the space of sixty seconds or so," he rejoined, "during which she vouchsafed the information that I could find you over here. She volunteered nothing more, and her chief concern appeared to be that I might awaken Faith."

"Then how?" I began, bewildered, and just as a sudden enlightening thought came to me. (Continued tomorrow)

Robert Title Bout Looms For Casey-Clark Victor

TITANS CLASH AT GARDEN

BY KINGSHIDE
Steve Casey, Irish heavyweight, and George (Dazzler) Clark of Scotland, are ready for their final bout, best two falls out of three, at the Garden tonight under the direction of Paul Bowser.

The big fellows have been training in Boston for the past week and both sport they are in good condition for tonight's match. Clark is eager to get revenge for the setback he received at the hands of Casey two months ago. In that time Casey scored a questionable fall. Clark insists Referee Ted Zimmerman deprived him of two falls.

Sam Smith of Roxbury will be the third man in the ring after a torrid dispute between Jack Albricht, representing Casey, and Mac McLean, Clark's promoter. It will be Casey's first important bout since he returned to the mat.

ZANNELLI Defeats Gordon AT FALL RIVER

Fall River, April 30—Ralph Zannelli, heralded as the next world welterweight champion by his Providence admirers, gave a packed house of 2000 at the Casino a preview of a title fight in action as he rough-bounded his way to a split decision over Charlie Gordon.

Zannelli, who has been straight bouts, most of them by knockout, since he turned professional, had to stomp it all the way to win the decision.

The bees mean nothing, thanks to the "Buckeye" pitcher who collected four blows, were walked off three runs off "Bucky." Paikio was charged with two errors in the eighth and ninth, and Wayne Gaffney served as catcher. A Garo double which knotted the count at 1-0 in the seventh inning and second with one out in the ninth, but Bush held them there until the end of the game. The war was drawn complete by his tenth-inning slip.

He had that two Quakers singled. Johnny Moore tried to get a home run off the big Warstler for a force at second. Then Klein was purposely named. He hit a single, but it was Mr. Arrowood of home run fame. Fame!

The best Morris could do the time, however, was a tap with a bat which he swung off at the plate. Atwood followed with a fly to DiMaggio to send to third.

And Guy smiled for the first time.

hit a homer before a loyal Boston crowd at the old Fenway Park. Boston was defeated, then the Sox were made me happy, it was first time I have heard it is so. When I saw that tremendous crowd which overflowed the stands at the stadium, I knew the rules, I knew them and there everything I ever heard about Boston was true. It was a great estimation instead of exaggerated.

But when I speak about the biggest thing I do, I must say about the greatest disappointment as well.

You may recall that the Yankees won the World Series by winning two runs in their half of the 10th inning. That left us trailing 6-5, we went to bat in our last chance.

We got one of those runs back and the bases were loaded, my turn came when it became my turn to hit.

JUDGE PUFFLE - Gene Ahern

Here was opportunity beckoning. I could show that I really had the goods.

I prayed inwardly that I might deliver. A single would win the prize.

I had already pulled a single a double and I felt confident.

ever I was to be nervous in the future, it seemed to be over now.

However, I was cool and collected. I went up there and tried my best. My best was a fly ball to the outfield. I was out.

In the dressing room the boys were wonderful. They told me to forget all about it. That it just didn't do to be that way all in the game.

It's spirit like this which makes you feel like that you're lucky to be playing in the Red Sox and with a manager like the Red Sox.

NEW MOTOR FUEL .. REVOLUTIONARY! .. MONEY-SAVING!

not GAS alone... not OIL alone... BUT

GAS OIL INE

THE MODERN MOTOR FUEL

TODAY, SCIENCE WARNS... old-fashioned gasoline is not enough! Gasoline alone cannot correctly power your motor

The plain truth is, today's motors have outdistanced ordinary gasoline. Higher compressions. Higher speeds. Smaller precision parts. Hair line clearances. Severer operating temperatures. All those radical changes in your motor demand radical changes in fuel that lubricates fuel. They demand a gasoline that lubricates as it drives. In short they demand GAS OIL INE... the amazing new motor fuel developed in the laboratories of the Tide Water Associated Oil Company. This new motor fuel is a long step forward in the science of powering your high-speed motor. In this fuel the most perfect top-cylinder lubricant yet devised is blended into a specially refined, powerful, hi-test GAS OIL INE.

Carried by the GAS OIL INE itself to inaccessible friction spots at the top of your motor, the lubricant eases valves, piston heads, and the lubricants into friction-free, effortless action. The result is a flexible power, a velvet smoothness, and an operating economy that will astonish you.

GAS OIL INE takes the place of both old-fashioned gasoline and top-cylinder oil. Yet it costs you no more than you pay for "just gas" alone. Fill up with GAS OIL INE, today, at any Tydol pump.

PASTOR WARNS OF RADICAL PROPAGANDA

A warning against the spread of Communism in this country and of an "army and navy" to "take over" were principal features of a talk by the Rev. Harold C. Brown, minister of the Park Street Church, before the Boston Council of Women's Clubs in the stage vestibule.

"Remember, there are some things worse than war," Rev. Brown said. "Russia has spread her propaganda over the United States to an extent which we fail to realize."

There is a subtle and highly dangerous Communist plan at work here, he said, which has been planned as required reading by those teachers in this country. I am, he said, prepared by 17 educators to stand by the teachers who would tell the characters of our youth and all but one of those teachers have rejected the Communist theory.

He said he saw "hated" in the eyes of the people in Europe have been told of the United States and our own build-up at home and build-up abroad may second to none.

Copeland, King Declare Communists Seek to Wreck U. S. Merchant Marine

Washington, April 30 (U.S.)—Communists agents are plotting destruction of the American merchant marine, Senator Copeland, D., New York, charged in the Senate today.

King the Senate to provide funds for ship equipment, type and located communities were fast to get control over the merchant marine and then destroy it.

Copeland is chairman of the Senate commerce committee, which handles merchant marine legislation. He and Senator King, (D), Utah, blamed Harry Bridges, seamen and longshoremen's leader on the Pacific Coast, as the spearhead of the movement.

Copeland said Bridges would be added to the Senate's committee to pass laws of ship up, took in to attract "unscrupulous" of Communists tending to destroy safety.

Both Copeland and King awarded leaders of recent maritime wars claiming they were charged chiefly to cripple the merchant marine.

King flatly charged Bridges with seriously injuring American shipping through the strike last fall on the Pacific and Atlantic coasts.

King said: "There is a dangerous situation if what we hear is true. This man, Bridges, has built up a powerful organization through which, at his will, he can paralyze our ships and virtually halt our commerce with other nations."

Leaping to his feet, Copeland declared the time had come when Congress would be obliged to "take cognizance of the dangers facing American shipping."

He stated: "In the start of every revolution the aim of the agitators first is to obtain control of the shipping industry. On the Pacific coast it has been demonstrated that that can be done."

"There you see Harry Bridges, an avowed Communist. He is an alien and remains here only by our courtesy."

"He has surrounded himself with a large and powerful band of Communists. He has spread his influence into every field affecting shipping and has shown he can paralyze commerce on the Pacific coast."

"Not content with that, he moved to the Atlantic where he lined up a Communist group of so-called seamen and attempted to tie up shipping there."

Copeland said a captain of a large steamer on the Pacific was forced under threat of death to join the Bridges-dominated union. He added: "The next day the union took him to the docks and put him on duty there, picking his own ship."

Copeland's plea for restoration of 271,000 struck from the measure by the House, the Senate, adopted the deficiency bill with the House revision.

CURLEY JOINS K. C. DRIVE ON COMMUNISTS

Former Governor Curley announced today that he would take an active part in the campaign of the Massachusetts Council of the Knights of Columbus against radical propaganda in this state.

The former governor joined hands with the Knights of Columbus yesterday when he addressed an audience of 2100 in the auditorium of Dorchester High School in a Catholic Action meeting sponsored by the Shawmut Council of the Knights of Columbus.

Others who have announced that they will lend their talents to the cause are, the Rev. Michael J. Ahern, S. J., of Weston College, noted authority on Communism and the Rev. Thomas Flynn of St. Leo's Parish, Dorchester.

Former Governor Curley said today: "We must not think that Communism is dormant in New England. The Reds are busy everywhere, especially in our schools and colleges. I firmly believe that the Knights of Columbus deserve real support in this drive and I am 100 per cent with them."

PAGEANT WILL MARK V. F. W. MAY 1 RALLY

Song, pageant and oratory are the features of the annual May Day patriotic rally of the Veterans of Foreign Wars' Ladies Auxiliary, scheduled tomorrow for the Parkman Bandstand, Boston Common.

Ceremonies start promptly at noon, with the Rev. Cornelius Fordham, St. Paul's Church, Hingham, reading the invocation.

An elaborate program, "The Progress of America," will be then presented. Five members of the auxiliary are to be attired in symbolic costumes bearing flags of different nations, which were responsible for the early evolution of America.

The main address is to be delivered by Paul C. Wolman, Baltimore attorney, past-commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Other speakers scheduled to appear include Governor Rains, Mayor Mansfield, former Governor Curley and Commissioner James G. Pearson, of the state department of education.

Ran 2 Record-Smashing 440 Yd. Dashes in One Day!

STARTING FAST—as demonstrated in pictures by the sensational track star, Ray Ellinwood, of the University of Chicago. Ray clipped .3 second off the indoor 440-yard dash record in his first collegiate track meet—ran the distance in 49 seconds flat. And, 20 minutes later, duplicated the feat as anchor man on the relay team.

TURNS ON THE POWER. He's off to a lightning-quick start—one of the major factors in his record-smashing victories. Ray's well-developed combination of healthy nerves and instantly-usable energy enables him to jump into the lead at the crack of the gun.

ARMS AND LEGS DRIVE LIKE PISTONS. This and the next picture show the almost explosive power Ray unleashes in the first few strides. And he keeps up this tremendous output of energy right on to the finish.

NO LET-DOWN ON THIS JOB. Operating a gigantic steam-hammer can take it out of a man. Charlie Kimball (left) knows that. He's at the controls eight hours a day. "Camels are my smoking pal," he says. "They help me keep hitting on all eight—always give me a welcome 'lift' in energy when I need it most. Camels set me up and set me right!"

EVERY HOUR'S A BUSY ONE for attractive Claire Huntington (right), public stenographer. "Yes, it's a strain," she says, "but it never gets too much for me. I'll tell you what I do. No matter how tired I get, smoking a Camel brings back my energy—puts new pep in me. Although I smoke a lot, Camels never jangle my nerves."

SURVEYOR William Barrett (left) speaks: "I get on a lot of Camel smoking during the day. When I begin to feel below par, it's me for a Camel and that invigorating 'lift.' Being a Camel smoker, I don't know what jangled nerves mean. I actually have walked — not one mile—but five — to make sure I had my Camels."

"JACK OKIE'S COLLEGE" A gala show with Jack Okie running the "college"! Hollywood comedians and singing stars! Join Jack Okie's College, Tuesdays—8:30 p.m. E.S.T. (9:30 p.m. E.D.S.T.), 7:30 p.m. C.S.T., 6:30 p.m. M.S.T., 5:30 p.m. P.S.T., over WABC-Columbia Network.

FLYING is the favorite sport of Mrs. John W. Rockefeller, Jr. (right), prominent in New York society. And Camel is her favorite cigarette. "My first thought, when I set my feet on firm ground, is to smoke a Camel," she says. "It's wonderful when you're tired to get a cheering 'lift' with a Camel."

"Please add me to the list of athletes who get a 'lift' with a Camel!"—Ray Ellinwood

"I NEVER realized how much 'Get a 'lift' with a Camel' meant to me until I ran two record-breaking quarters in one afternoon," Ray continues. "That's the time when I put on my supreme effort. Afterward a Camel helped me pull myself together—helped me change over from being tired to feeling full of pep. And that night I ate heartily and digested my meal as well as ever. This convinced me 100% on the value of enjoying Camels' for digestion's sake." At right, Ray enjoys a Camel after a hearty meal.

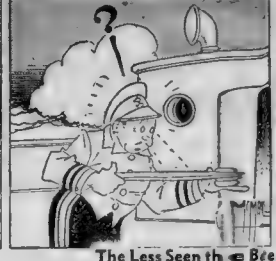

In every line of endeavor—active, hard-working men and women light up Camels to renew their vim and energy—to add more enjoyment to meals.
